Call for Proposals

SOPHE is an international conference that encourages and provides a forum for scholarship in the philosophical, historical, and social foundations of education, educational biography, pedagogical praxis, and the education-liberal arts nexus. For its scholarly presentations, SOPHE prefers argumentative, thesis-driven papers, clearly linked to larger philosophical, historical, and social issues concerning education (including higher education) as a social institution and the connections between education and the liberal arts including biography, history, literature, the sciences, and mathematics. Depending on focus of submissions, the program will have topical sessions that include philosophy of education, history of education, educational praxis, issues in education, and educational biography, among others. We invite proposals from scholars in colleges of education and arts and sciences, graduate students, and independent scholars. Individual presentations should be timed to finish within the strict limit of TWENTY (20) MINUTES.
